

Get Help Planning Your Retirement Income Strategy

Your retirement income strategy is the manner in which you access your retirement savings accounts. It can be just as important as when you retire or how much you withdraw.

Depending on your financial picture, it may be advantageous to delay withdrawing money from certain retirement savings sources. For example, the longer you postpone collecting Social Security, the larger your monthly benefit may be when you finally choose to start receiving it.

The good news is that your ABA Retirement Funds Program (“Program”) account allows you to make regular withdrawals from your account (e.g. monthly); and gives you a lot of flexibility, especially if you have other pools of savings you would rather use first.

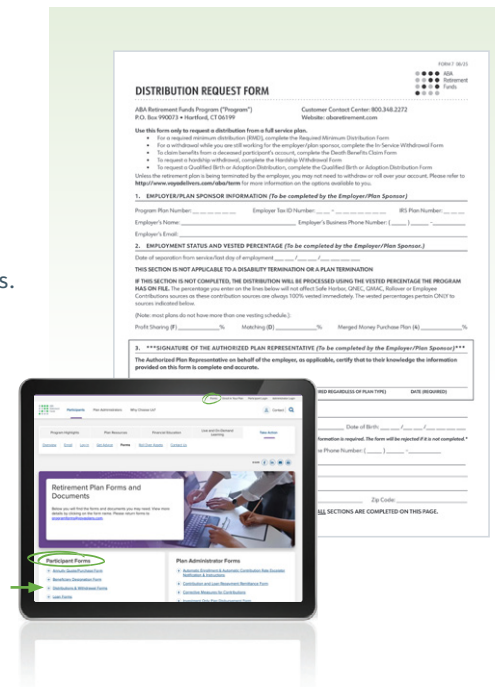

Here are some things you need to know:

You Can Keep Your Savings in the Program:

If you’re retired or about to retire, you can keep accumulated savings in your account (vested balance must be greater than $7,000). You still have access to our full array of investments, planning tools, and Voya Retirement Advisors,¹ investment advisory services.

Installment Payment Options Are Available:

We make it easy to manage and access your money in retirement. You can receive installment payments from your account without incurring extra costs or fees. On the home page of the at abaretirement.com website, you’ll find the Distribution Request Form under Forms > Participant Forms to download. Enter your desired option under Section 6: “Form of Benefit.” You have flexibility to choose how often you will receive a payment—monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually—and how much you want to receive.

Required Minimum Distributions Begin at 73:

When you reach age 73, you will need to start taking your Required Minimum Distribution (“RMD”) from your account if you no longer work for the plan sponsor or if you are a 5% or more owner of the firm that sponsors the plan at any time in the year you turn 73. Additionally, your account must comply with the following RMD rules during retirement.

- If you’ll be 73 or older by December 31 of this calendar year, and you no longer work for the firm that sponsors the Program plan, or you are a 5% or more owner of the firm that sponsors the plan at any time in the year you turn 73, you will need to take your RMD from your account in order to avoid penalties.²
- Your first RMD is due by April 1 of the year following the year in which you become required to take it. So if you are already retired from your firm when you turn 73, then you have until April 1 of the next year to withdraw it. Or, if you terminate employment from the plan sponsor at age 73, then you become required to take it the year you terminate employment - but can defer your “first” RMD until the following April 1.
- If your plan is subject to spousal consent, this requirement still applies to RMDs. Note: The RMD Spousal Consent and Witness Signatures form only has to be executed once and will be kept on file for all future RMDs processed under the automatic payment sweep. Please call 800.348.2272 or email us at contactus@abaretirement.com if you need a spousal consent form.
- RMD payments cannot be made directly from Schwab Personal Choice Retirement Account® (“PCRA”)³. You must instead make sure that you have enough cash in the Program’s other investment options to draw from. This may entail liquidating securities. Call the Customer Service Center at 800.348.2272 to determine if this will be necessary.

Please note: If you are a Participant, the RMD rules do not apply to your Roth account. However, RMD rules do apply to Roth accounts held by a beneficiary.
